I. Comment on the following extract (use 100–150 words).

The Museum Now. New Challenges

Unable to resist the digital tide, museums have begun to allow smartphones to be used in their galleries. Stepping into a gallery occupied by an even moderately famous object we now find ourselves adrift in a sea of screens held aloft as each visitor tries to capture what's in front of them.

As well as shaping the way we experience museums, the digital revolution has also altered how and what they collect. Screens have offered not only new possibilities of digital consumption, but of production. Even if the object produced at the end of a creative process – whether a work of art or of everyday industrial design – remains physical, the process itself is very often digital.

Things are rather more complex when the object itself is digital. Some of the most influential 'objects' of the last decade are apps. But how does a museum collect an 'app'? Does it collect the source code from the developer? Or the app package that we download onto our phones? But which version? And if the app is a conduit to a broader network or platform, do we have to collect that too?

Again, while presenting clear challenges, these questions can be answered in a variety of ways and from those answers a series of 'best practice' guidelines developed. And insofar as digital distraction and shortening attention spans diminish our experience of a museum, there is the counterargument that in a media-saturated world, what many people are looking for are the kinds of authentic, 'slow' experiences that museums are uniquely placed to offer. Meanwhile, the increasing digitization of museum catalogues has led to the prediction that their presence online would reduce the number of people who would then subsequently visit. On the contrary, the more museums put online the more, it seems, people are driven to visit in person.

So, while potentially threatening the role and status of the museum, the digital revolution has in fact offered new ways to engage with museums and their collections, which potentially dramatically expand their reach and impact. If we accept that the digital revolution offers a new way of experiencing the world, then the museum has the potential to act as a vital platform for the new forms of cultural interaction.

(From "The Museum. From its Origins to the 21st Century" by Owen Hopkins)

It is considered in the text that artificial intelligence can be successfully integrated into museums.In my opinion, exhibited innovations can draw a lot of people's attention.

It is mentioned that exhibitions connected with innovations and artificial intelligence can encourage a myriad of people to visit museums if they have not even been interested in this activity before.To my mind, we should keep abreast of new apps,digital devices because we live in the era of the digital revolution.In addition,if we follow the trend,even our young generation will be fascinated by visiting museums due to artificial intelligence.

To sum up, it is of paramount importance not to ignore our digital development and try to implement it in museum so that plenty of people will pay attention to the attendance of these places.

II. Comment on the statement from the book “Transform Through Travel: Connecting Across Cultures” by Robert Maisel (use 180–220 words):

Travel allows you to better understand and evaluate the bigger picture of your life.

Robert Maisel once said,'Travel allows you to better understand and evaluate the bigger picture of your life.'In my opinion,travelling broadens our horizons because we are able to find out a lot of new information without putting any effort into it.It is of utmost importance to go abroad or visit various cities in your country.

As far as I am concerned, when people travel, they are able not only to have a whale of a time but also find out a lot of new and inspiring information about different aspects of life of countries that they visit.In addition,if we travel, we will be able to gain plenty of new experience and better understanding of many events and global issues that will come in useful in the future.

In my experience,I hadn't travelled before the eighth form.No sooner had I visited another country than I started paying attention to many tiny details and scrutiny different aspects of issues that is still helpful for me to tackle my issues.

To sum up, it is up to everyone if they want to travel or not.Despite that,travelling is really beneficial because it encourages us to be more curious and understand both regional and global issues.

III. Write the appropriate ending to the story given below (use 60-90 words):

A young man had a new girl-friend, whom he wanted to impress, so he invited her to go to a world-famous restaurant with him one evening. They dined wonderfully and had numerous drinks; they danced until midnight, and there was a polished musical entertainment. The girl enjoyed the entire evening, and was suitably impressed by everything she saw, including several film stars.

Then the waiter brought the bill at the end of the evening, and when the young man saw how much he had to pay, he was so shocked by the total that he went as white as a sheet.

Think of the ending to the story and write it in the space below.

The man started evaluating what it would be better to do.First of all, he wanted to call his friend Mike and persuade him to lend some money.Despite that,he decided to escape from such a horrible situation,so he run away at a breakneck speed.No sooner had he done it than the girl left the restaurant.Finaly,a miserable waiter had to pay his money.

IV. Create your own story based on the series of pictures (use 150–180 words):

There was one policeman that fell in love with one gorgeous and intelligent woman that, to his dismay,had already tied the knot.The man was so miserable that he sobbed every day.Despite that,there was one event that completely changed his life.

While he was working as a policeman in their park, he noticed the woman's husband and wanted to follow him.The husband was staring at flowers and on the spur of the moment took several tulips.No sooner had he done it than the policeman caught him and cooed,'Stop.I have to arrest you because you have just broken the law.'The man didn't reply and gave up.The policeman continued,'If you don't want to be imprisoned, you should divorce with your wife.'First,the husband didn't want to accept such a horrible offer,but then he leapt at the offer.Hardly had the policeman culminated the conversation when he visited his love, gifted her these flowers and proposed her to marry him.

After three years the woman got pregnant.They sometimes recalled this event and were grateful to the fortune that they met each other.

V. Find and underline ten mistakes (lexical and grammar) and write the wrong variant in the left and the correct variant in the right column of the table below the text.

The Library of Congress

The Library of Congress in Washington is certainly the largest library in the world. It's collections are incredibly diverse: books, manuscripts, photographs, volumes in Braille for blind, rolls of microfilm, magnetic tape, sheets of music and each other form of preserved thought.

The Library of Congress, the world's largest building devoted holly to library uses, occupies two city squares facing the Capitol Grounds. Begun in 1886, completed in 1897, the buildings cover about 3.5 acres. The main reading hall accommodates 1,000 readers at the time and is free to anyone above 16 years of age. To meet the continuant increase of the Library's collections a few annexed buildings were later constructed on the same grounds.

The Library is rich in musical events. An audience of 500 sits provides free concerts and lectures. Special facilities for serious research include 50 individual study rooms and a lot of special desks.
